Falcon hockey team named number one

BG rises from third to first in nation

By John Lammers
and Dave Lewandowski

For the first time in its 10-year history, the Bowling Green hockey team has been ranked as the best college team in the United States.

In a poll of 10 college hockey coaches conducted by radio station WMPL in Hancock, Mich., the Falcons earned seven first-place votes and 90 total points. Minnesota, the runner-up, had two first-place votes and 85 points.

Coach Ron Mason, who has led the Falcons to a 23-3-1 record, said, "It's a tribute to the team that hard work pays off."

"Everybody's pretty happy but the question is staying there," he said. "This gives the other team ammunition to go after us."

SENIOR KEN MORROW, the Falcons' first All-American defenseman, said, "We always had it in the back of our minds. It was a long time coming. But it is especially gratifying to those players who have been here for a few years."

Last year's co-Central Collegiate Hockey Association (CCHA) Player of the Year, John Markell said, "It's a credit to our team. We really worked hard."

"The poll is nice but it's just an added bonus," Markell said. "We want to win the league first."

Wally Charko, whose 20-2-1 record leads all CCHA goaltenders, said, "It's something our team deserved. It was a total team effort. It was bound to come around."

WHEN ASKED if the honor would change the Falcons' style of play, he said, "No, what got us here is what will keep us going."

The team has a 13-game winning streak and its 12-0 league record leads the CCHA. Last year, they finished third in the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) tournament, posting a 31-8 record.

The Falcons, who have been in the top five of the poll for the last five weeks, were ranked third last week. However, Minnesota, the previously top-ranked team, lost and tied this weekend and second-rated North Dakota split two games.

After Saturday's pounding of Western Michigan, Mason said, "The way we've been playing, I think we deserve to be there (number one). We've won on the road and we've won at home. I just wish we played Minnesota."

UNIVERSITY PRESIDENT Dr. Hollis A. Moore said, "We have a first-class team this year. The players and coaches deserve this recognition. It is just one step on the way to bigger and better things."

Athletic Director James W. Lessig said, "I think anytime you're ranked number one, it's a tremendous honor to the University.

"Given the streak and the type of schedule we play, we deserve to be number one," he continued.

"The success is attributed to a lot of things - talent, coaching - but some of the credit has to go to the fans. I think our students have a lot to do with our being number one," Lessig said.

MORROW WARNED "Notre Dame was number one for awhile but now they're totally out of the picture."

Markell said, "All of the other teams will be gunning for us now."

The other American college poll - the NCAA poll - will be released within the next two days. The poll, which has not been highly regarded by Mason, is made up of selected NCAA officials and coaches.

Mason has said this poll does not fairly consider midwestern teams. Throughout the season he has regarded the WMPL poll as the most accurate.

WMPL Poll
Team	Points
Bowling Green (7)	90
Minnesota (2)	85
North Dakota (1)	75
Minnesota-Duluth	60
Cornell	60
Wisconsin	45
Boston University	42
Michigan Tech	32

WE'RE NUMBER ONE -- Falcon forward Brian MacLellan celebrates after scoring a goal against New Hampshire. MacLellan and his teammates have ample reason to celebrate after the Falcons were tabbed the number one team in the nation this week by the WMPL-coaches poll. The Falcons have reeled off 13 straight wins and own a 23-3-1 record.

Student-teacher booklet outlined by SGA

By Cynthia Leise
Staff Reporter

Student Government Association (SGA) members last week announced plans which could change anything from the classes and professors students choose to the way the campus looks.

Michael Zinicola, SGA presidential assistant, outlined plans for a student-teacher evaluation booklet that SGA hopes to begin compiling this quarter.

He explained that SGA hopes to survey both students and teachers on every class and compile the information in a booklet to inform students about the classes offered at the University.

ZINICOLA SAID his proposals for the booklet result from a study of about 100 similar class evaluation booklets from colleges and universities around the country.

He said SGA will steer clear of mistakes made in some of the booklets by asking objective, rather than subjective, questions about a class and instructor.

For example, Zinicola said students may be asked about a professor's style rather than if he or she is a good teacher. In addition, he said asking faculty about courses will balance and add to student comments.

SGA WILL REQUEST support from Faculty Senate on the booklets and if that support is pledged, Zinicola said SGA could have a sample evaluation booklet of the College of Business Administration finished by the middle of spring quarter. That booklet could then serve as a guideline for future evaluations of all University classes, he said.

James Whalen, SGA academic affairs coordinator, discussed plans for a student poll on the introductory English courses to suggest changes and said he will forward suggestions to specific University departments.

SGA ALSO DISCUSSED goals of the newly formed Energy and Campus Beautification committees. Several University administrators told SGA that cutting energy use with simple conservation measures would save much money and SGA pledged its support with an Energy Committee which could include students, faculty and administrators.

Rose Tombazzi, SGA senator representing sororities, proposed that SGA assist students in selling their used books by compiling a list of books to be sold and senators representing off-campus students said that are planning projects to help students find good housing.

University seeks new Equal Opportunity head

By Kristi Kehres
Staff Reporter

I'm looking for someone with administrative experience in higher education who can relate to minorities, women and disadvantaged people," Myron M. Chenault, assistant vice president for institutional contracts, said about the search for a director of the Equal Opportunity Compliance Office.

Beverly L. Mullins has been acting director since August. Chenault said that the Equal Opportunity Advisory Council is serving as the screening committee of applicants. The group is reviewing 80 applicants from all over the country and will submit five finalists by February.

"The final decision rests with me," he said.

Chenault explained that the director is responsible for monitoring the University affirmative action program to ensure that there is no discrimination on the basis of sex, race, religion or against handicapped persons.

"I LOOK AT the position as sort of like a troubleshooter," he added. "When there are problems on campus, the director goes in and straightens things out."

Chenault said Mullins is a candidate for the job, but if the screening committee does not submit her name as a final candidate she no longer will be director.

"Everybody (on the committee) knows her capabilities. Naturally, it's going to be tough for outsiders," he said.

CHENAULT ADDED that the director should be able to give the Equal Opportunity Office more exposure.

slip sliding away

Dorothy Hamill would feel right at home this week on the sidewalks that crisscross the campus. But for students who must negotiate these slickly-coated thoroughfares, the ice presents not only a challenge but a hazard.

Students have enough to contend with in the form of biting winds and demanding professors without having to endanger life and limb slip-sliding across ice-coated sidewalks or lightly treading down frozen steps. The potential scenario of one's feet higher than his head and a ream of papers and books floating in all directions around him may be acceptable in slapstick comedy, but should not occur on a college campus.

Maintenance crews should have been attacking the ice in full force since Saturday, when the freezing rains first hit the city. The job could have been completed before classes resumed yesterday, avoiding a crush of 20,000 students, faculty and staff that would make the task more difficult. Instead, the walks remain slicker than a con man's sales pitch, physically endangering those who must walk on them.

This inadequacy, inefficiency or oversight on the part of the University maintenance crews is unacceptable and should not be tolerated. The risk of serious injury is too great for the University to neglect the maintenance of its sidewalks in the harsh winter months. The possibility of lawsuits alone should be enough to incite administrators to act. A few man-hours of wages and the cost of a few hundred pounds of salt is a small price to pay for the health and happiness of the University community.

a friend remembered

The late Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was unquestionably one of the most influential persons in American history. His tireless efforts to improve civil rights for blacks in a nation where all men are supposed to be equal have left an indelible mark on the American social fabric and on its collective consciousness. His limitless capacity for the love of mankind, regardless of skin color, made him a model leader for future generations to emulate. His tragic death by an assassin's bullet in 1968 left the world stunned and grieving.

Yesterday, many public institutions closed their doors in observance of the 50th anniversary of this great man's birth. The public consciousness of his noble achievements was raised, if only for a day.

His preachings of non-violence and of love and respect for one's fellow man were strong enough to tear down some of the barriers of racial injustice and inequality. Yet many of these same barriers still remain to be torn down, in business, politics, education and employment opportunities. Prejudice and bigotry by all races of men still spew forth their doctrines of hate and ignorance. Without Dr. King's leadership and love, the struggle to eliminate these evils that impede social progress and the cause of human rights will be an even bigger challenge.

The News endorses proposals by Senator Edward M. Kennedy and President Jimmy Carter to mark January 15, the day of Dr. King's birth, as a national holiday so that the memory of the man will live on forever. For the millions of Americans who knew him, either personally or through his widespread media exposure, the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. is gone, but not forgotten.

"OF COURSE, I'D RESIGN AT ONCE IF I THOUGHT FOR A MOMENT THEY REALLY MEANT IT!"

the s.e. asian pinball game--one tilt after another

WASHINGTON--Americans are having a tough time deciding which way to tilt in Southeast Asia this week. Pro-Vietnamese Cambodian rebels marched into Phnom Penh, overthrew the tyrannical Communist Pol Pot government and gained control of most of Cambodia.

Ordinarily this action would require us to send American troops in to save Pol Pot. The problem is that Pol Pot is rumored to have killed more Cambodians when he took over from Lon Nol than the present Cambodian National United Front for National Salvation, which is now in power.

You can imagine the confusion at the State Department last week when the lightning invasion took place.

"I CAN'T TALK to you now," a

Art

veteran Pol Pot-watcher told me. "Phnom Penh is about to fall."

"Thank God," I said. "It's about time we had a victory in Southeast Asia."

"You don't understand. Hanoi is responsible for sending in the Cambodian rebels who have taken over the country."

"That sounds ominous," I said. "We better bomb Hanoi."

speaking out

mike voll: the bully of sga

After being elected Student Government association (SGA) president last year, Michael C. Voll met with then-SGA president Bob Wolf to discuss important aspects of the job.

One of the first things he asked was -- "How should I handle Cindy Leise?" -- knowing that I would be covering SGA this year as I had last year. Voll explained to Wolf that he wanted to know how to get the best publicity from me as possible.

Wolf said he told Voll something to the effect that he should worry about handling his own job rather than handling me.

But Voll didn't seem to take Wolf's advice. From the first SGA meeting, Voll has sought to manipulate my coverage of SGA in a variety of ways ranging from public verbal abuse to recent threats that he would "get something on me."

But his temper tantrums about my coverage of SGA, his patronizing or involved emotional tactics (including a suggestion at an SGA meeting that members crash a party I was planning) haven't done much to me but bring me to a conclusion.

Cindy

VOLL CARES MORE about appearances than results, he uses self-confidence to bully instead of lead and he has twisted his intelligence into political cunning rather than handling people and issues adroitly.

His treatment of me would not inspire this column. I'm a big girl and can deal with hostile news sources. It is Voll's similar methods of leading SGA that offend me.

He bullies the SGA senators, who represent the students. He's done this in a variety of ways, including cutting discussions short when senators question or endanger Voll's stand on a subject, calling senators by "cute" nicknames or calling attention to senators' shortcomings publicly without talking with them privately.

Several examples of these tendencies were seen at Thursday's SGA meeting.

When Michael Zincola, SGA presidential assistant, began discussing the proposed course evaluation booklet, Voll interrupted with a loud "be explicit." Zincola put up his hand, said "I will. Settle down," and went on unfazed with one of the most succinct presentations I have ever heard at an SGA meeting.

VOLL SUCCEEDED, however, in cutting off badly needed discussion about the particulars of a trial run of the proposed shuttle-bus service to take students to and from the Student Recreation Center. He told SGA to pass the measure to appropriate $90 for the trial run and they did, although several members were still shaking with emotion when the vote was taken. Voll said details about the trial run would be worked out later, which means of course by he and a select few other SGA members.

I have a sneaking suspicion that stopped discussion was also due to the length of the meeting, which was more than the typical hour or so.

At another time, Voll repeated his often-mentioned order to SGA members to come to the SGA office, saying that he often must "answer the phones myself and waste my precious time."

But I don't just want to critique Voll's methods with this column. I want him to learn something.

SGA CAN do a lot this quarter. I left the meeting last week excited about what some SGA senators and the group as a whole was planning to do.

SGA can work together, and that necessarily means as equals, if Voll would temper his bullying qualities and start really noticing what senators do and say.

I hope it happens.

a load to grin and bear

I've only been here for a week and already I am sick of the Bowling Green systems by which this University is run. The computer that rearranges schedules and complicates most of the students' schedules is only the beginning. Not only are we supposed to pay for the mistakes the computer makes through the fine of $3.00 for changes, but matters are further complicated by the lack of classes offered with enough sections to accommodate all of the students who must take them. Getting a closed card is a joke in itself. I know several people who waited for a certain class for over a couple of hours in the departmental office from which they were to try to plead for a closed card.

The cafeterias in which we are supposed to get a filling and nutritionally sound meal are a disgrace to the University. Portions are not big enough to satisfy a bird's appetite, and the prices charged are an out and out royal rip-off. Imagine paying $2.50 for a lousy strip of half-cooked bacon. The hamburgers are less than that of McDonald's and twice the price. And at least you get ketchup, mustard, and a pickle on them!

I went to the bookstore (University) to sell my books and the highest price quoted was $2.50 for my Popular Culture Reader. That makes me think that that particular class was twice as worthless as it really was (sorry, Jack, it's nothing personal). The point is, actually, that the students pay anywhere from $50 to $60 for their books at the beginning of every quarter and only receive partial return on them when they try to unload them. That's really hard on the students who depend on this return to pay for their books for the upcoming quarter. I think this is a very sad side to academic life, especially for these students.

For the money that is being paid, the quality of University services and life should be much higher than it actually is. I know this is a bad time to bring this subject up, with the opening of a partially finished Recreation Center and all, but I feel that I am speaking for a vast majority of students, as all I have heard since my return is complaints. Let's try to remember that we are not just students; we are, and our parents are, consumers of this particular University and should be treated with the same respect that we receive from other business institutions. Just because we are students, we should not be treated as inferiors. Let's try to put our heads together and make this time spent here something more than a load on our shoulders put there to grin and bear.

When I first heard about the possibility of shuttle buses running to and from the Rec Center I was slightly amazed. It struck me as something our fabulous federal government would do. I mean things like the study a few years ago costing 12 million tax dollars and determining that it takes the average field mouse 5 seconds to copulate. I laughed the idea of buses off as being in the same vein.

However, when the News' survey appeared Tuesday and showed 8 students to 4 in favor of having the buses, I couldn't believe it. I decided to take my own survey.

ME: Miss X, do you think having Rec Center shuttle buses is a good idea?

MISS X: Yes, it's marvelous. I mean, I live all the way over in Founders, and it's a real hassle trying to get to the center and get my exercise, you know?

ME: What do you do in the center?

MISS X: Oh, I run 3 miles a day.

ME: Mr. Y, do you like the idea of shuttle buses to the Rec Center?

MR. Y: Yeah, it's great. Protects me from the elements and I don't get worn out walking over from Offenbauer.

ME: The elements?

MR. Y: Yeah, wind, rain, stuff like that.

ME: And what do you do when you get there?

MR. Y: I jog a mile, swim five laps in Cooper pool, shower and go home.

ME: Mr. Z, don't you think that shuttle buses would be defeating the purpose of the Rec Center?

MR. Z: Definitely not. Really now, how can you enjoy getting exercise if you're all worn out?

So, seeing the results of the survey, I have to admit that shuttle buses must really be a good idea, and I'm sorry for creating a fuss. If the buses do work, maybe the SGA would approve a pet project of mine. Use shuttle buses to transport on-campus students from their parking lots to their dorms and back. Well, it's a thought.

ACGFA to recommend spending

By Roger Lowe
Managing Editor

Eleven persons representing undergraduate student, graduate student and faculty interests will meet during the next two months to decide how general fees should be allocated.

The Advisory Committee on General Fee Allocations (ACGFA), which meets at 9 a.m. tomorrow in 436 Student Services Bldg., will make recommendations to University President Dr. Hollis A. Moore Jr. and the University Board of Trustees as to how the revenues from the $87-a-quarter general fee are spent, according to Bobby G. Arrowsmith, ACGFA chairman and assistant vice provost for students activities.

Committee members were chosen by Student Government Association (SGA), Graduate Student Senate (GSS) and Faculty Senate.

Michael C. Voll, president of SGA, said that the screening committee used to select the undergraduate representatives to the committee included a representative from every major student organization at the University except the News.

THE NEWS CHOSE not to send a representative to the ACGFA screening hearings because the News will report about ACGFA and did not want to become directly involved in the committee's proceedings, according to editor Jamie Pierman.

The Black Student Union, Intrafraternity Council, Resident Student Association, Panhellenic Council, the Commuter Center and Union Activities Organization sent representatives to choose ACGFA members and alternates, Voll said.

SGA has three representatives on the selection committee: Voll, vice-president Merritt Lohr and Frank Aveni, Voll added.

THE COMMITTEE interviewed 53 applicants and narrowed the field to 15 or 16 students, who participated in a mock interview.

The undergraduate representatives on ACGFA are Steve Shutt, Richard Weibl, Rose Tombazzi, Kenneth Simonson, Butch Miller, Scott Grove and Tom Washbush.

Undergraduate alternates are Scott Stevenson and Frank Aveni.

The two graduate student representatives are Ellen Goble Walsh and Fran Dickson. Both are members of the GSS executive committee, according to Ted Forsberg, GSS president.

WALSH WAS APPOINTED from the executive committee and Dickson volunteered, Forsberg said.

GSS alternates are Ronnie Warm and Carol Butcher.

Faculty Senate representatives were chosen by President David C. Roller, who explained that he contacts various departments for suggestions.

Faculty Senate representatives are Harry Tyson and Marvin Kumlir.

Arrowsmith encouraged persons to contact their representatives with information or comments about allocations. Persons in the gallery at hearings will be allowed to speak, he added.

From Associated Press wire stories

Shah expected to leave Iran

Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, his power crumbling and many of his people rejoicing in his downfall, will leave Iran today for Egypt and the United States, informed sources said Monday.

Many expect his journey to end in permanent exile.

Political violence erupted anew as this country awaited the uncertainties of a post-shah era.

AMONG AT LEAST 18 persons reported killed in two days of bloodshed was a former U.S. Air Force colonel, Martin Berkowitz, 53, of San Francisco, the second American slain in 12 months of nationwide turmoil here.

The Iranian Senate hastily gave its endorsement Monday to the new government of Prime Minister Shahpour Bakhtiar, a prominent opposition figure, and the lower house of Parliament was expected to vote its approval today.

The shah is scheduled to hold a rare news conference late this morning, apparently just before flying out of the country.

BY LEAVING, the shah will clear the way for Bakhtiar to take full control of the nation.

But the new prime minister must overcome the political stigma of having been chosen by the shah and must deal with the powerful Moslem religious leaders, chiefly the exiled Ayatollah Khomeini, who wants to establish an Islamic republic of their design.

More than 100,000 jubilant Iranians converged on Tehran's main bazaar district yesterday cheerfully chanting "Death to the shah!" and "Long live Khomeini."

Government troops, standing by and not trying to stop the demonstration, were showered with flowers and kisses by the demonstrators.

NO MAJOR BLOODSHED was reported in Tehran, but reports reaching the capital said at least 17 persons were killed Sunday in violence in 21 towns and cities, and at least one death was reported yesterday. More than 1,500 persons are estimated to have been killed in the year-long political upheaval.

The newspaper Khayan said Berkowitz, identified as head of a copper-mining firm, Parson-Jordan Co., apparently was stabbed Sunday night in the kitchen of his home in the southeast city of Kerman.

The paper said his killers scrawled the words "Go Back To Your Country" on a wall of the house before escaping.

The U.S. Embassy confirmed Berkowitz had been found dead but gave no details.

Do TV ads mislead children?

Television commercials tell children the "biggest lie they'll ever hear," a representative for a consumer group told the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) on Monday at the first day of hearings on advertising aimed at youngsters. Harry M. Snyder, West Coast director of Consumers Union, said children were the "littlest consumers" and needed special protection from what he claimed were unfair and deceptive commercials.

Snyder said as many as 25 million children watch television unsupervised each day because both parents work.

WHERE IS IT written that the new family structure is child, parent and General Foods," he asked. Frederick P. Furth, a lawyer representing Kellogg Co., the cereal manufacturer, said most breakfast cereal companies did not broadcast deceptive ads.

He said 95 percent of the commercials for cereals promoted good health because children were shown eating cereal with milk. He also said commercials encouraged children to eat breakfast.

Hearings will continue in Washington in March.

Cagers can't break the Miami jinx

You'd think by now Bowling Green's basketball and football teams would have exhausted every possible way to lose to Miami or Ohio University, its most hated Mid-American Conference rival.

With BG trailing, 9-7 late in the fourth quarter, the Falcons were inside the Miami five-yard line. On fourth-down-and-goal to go, Don Nehlen, then BG's head coach, got confused and thought it was still third down. Rather than go for the chip shot field goal that would have salvaged the victory, he ran a play on fourth down, Miami held and won the game.

IT WAS hard to believe a fiasco like that could be stopped, but we should have known better.

Bowling Green's basketball team went one better Saturday afternoon at Oxford.

The Falcons entered the game with a 8-4 overall record, while Miami was a dismal 4-9.

The Redskins lost four excellent players to graduation and have only a skeleton of the teams they've had in the past.

And, with one minute and three seconds to go on the game, BG appeared to have the game well in hand-as it should have-by holding an 11-point lead.

What transpired in the next 63 seconds was absolutely mindboggling.

I'm glad I didn't see it, because this time even seeing wouldn't have meant believing.

FROM THE accounts I've been able to get of the game, this is what happened, in case you missed it. Even if you did miss it, you probably will have to read it a couple of times to believe it.

Rick Goins, Miami's only player to average in double figures on the season, made a shot to tighten the lead to 73-64 with 1:03 remaining in the game.

With 51 seconds left, Rosie Barnes, the Falcons leading scorer with 20 points, missed the front end of a one-and-one and Miami came down and scored on a three-point play by Goins, who was fouled by Scott Spencer, to cut the lead to 73-67.

Duane Gray, a 90 percent foul shooter and the man BG most wanted to go to the foul line, got his chance with 46 seconds to go. Gray missed the shot and Steve Alleg hit a jumper for the Redskins to make the score 73-69.

Miami then stole the ball and Tom Dunn scored and was fouled by Gray and Dunn completed the three-point play to cut the lead to 73-72.

BG WAS able to handle the ball for 20 seconds before its final heroics. With nine seconds left, Gray again missed a one-and-one and Miami quickly rebounded and got the ball down the court to Goins, who hit a shot from the corner to give the Redskins the victory, 74-73.

One second remained on the clock, but it wasn't enough for the Falcons, who went down to its eight straight loss to Miami.

It was jokingly suggested by a friend of mine the next day that an intramural team could probably hold onto an 11-point lead with only one minute to go against ANYBODY.

So that must explain it. Bowling Green isn't an intramural team and Miami, based on past history, isn't just ANYBODY.

WHAT IS so damn discouraging is that the Class of 1979, of which I am a member, has never seen BG beat Miami in football or basketball in our four years here.

In that span, the Falcons are 0-4 in football against the Redskins and the basketball team is 0-7.

Some people call it a jinx, others just say it is coincidence, but after Saturday, I'd call it just plain spooky.

But, one last chance remains for this group of diehards who have learned to hate Miami, or BG as the case may be, after these continued setbacks.

Miami comes to town Feb. 17 and BG will have one last chance to redeem itself in one of the two money sports then.

I hope there isn't a full moon that night. Otherwise, the Falcons may get spooked again.

GETTING CONTROL - Falcon hockey player Brian MacLellan (24) fights for control of the puck in last weekend's action against Western Michigan. MacLellan had one goal and three assists over the weekend.

McPhee leads icer sweep

By John Lammers
Assistant Sports Editor

George McPhee is feeling at home, and that's unusual for any University freshman.

McPhee has stepped into the lineup and performed so well that he is the leading scorer on Bowling Green's hockey team.

He said he feels at home with the Falcon style of play, which is one of persistent forechecking, the ways Coach Ron Mason likes it.

"Coach Mason's style is check, check, check," McPhee said. "We keep it up and it frustrates the other team."

THAT STYLE matches his talent because, he said, "I'm not much of a skater and I don't have much of a shot."

But McPhee must be doing something right. After two goals and two assists in Saturday's 10-2 thumping of Western Michigan, he has 26 goals and 28 assists for 54 points—the most in the Central Collegiate Hockey Association.

One reason for his success is another place where any player would feel at home—on a line with Mark Wells and John Markell.

Wells and Markell, not coinidentally, are second and third scorers on the Falcons and two of the finest skaters and passers on the team.

AND McPHEE is grateful.

"They're both so strong on the puck," he said. "As long as I'm in the right spot and I do my job, I'm alright."

He said he is alright because Mason has made things much more comfortable for the freshman.

"I felt no pressure. He wanted a hundred percent and that's all. There's pressure as part of the team, but not individual pressure," he said.

Although he was nervous before the first games in Michigan and Bowling Green, "things have been great since then."

THINGS WERE great for the entire team this weekend. The Falcons clobbered WMU 4-1 and 10-2, as the CCHA leader beat the bottom team.

Saturday, in front of 3,447 persons, the largest home crowd of the season, the Falcons got scoring to last a week.

"In the last five games, we played well defensively, but not offensively," Mason said after the game. "Tonight we played well offensively."

"It's nice when you have a big crowd to play like this. Then they come back," he said.

IN ADDITION to McPhee's four points Saturday, Wells had four assists and John Gibb had two goals. Yves Pelland and Brian MacLellan had a goal and three assists each over the weekend.

Wally Charko, moving his record to 20-2-1, had 23 saves Friday and Brian Stankiewicz made his first home start Saturday and had 19 saves.

There was an ugly scene at Friday's game in Kalamazoo, Mich. Freddie Falcon reportedly had his head removed and thrown to the ice by some spectators. His cowbell was also pitched to the ice.

MASON RECALLS more of the shenanigans after the game: "I was shaking hands with the other coach (WMU's Glen Weller) and a cherry bomb landed within 30 feet of us. That kind of thing can't be condoned in college hockey."

Saturday Mason said there were other problems at the zoo at Kalamazoo Friday.

"We got bumped around and I thought the officiating stunk. I think some of that carried over from last night," he said.

Swimming team splits

By Pat Hyland
Assistant Sports Editor

Swimming before capacity crowds at the rec center's Cooper pool, Bowling Green's men's swimming team split its two-meet weekend with Wayne State and Kenyon. The Falcons trimmed Wayne State in the opener Friday night, 60-53, but dropped a Saturday afternoon contest to Kenyon, 68-45.

"Psychologically, we wanted to start off with a win and look good," Coach Tom Stubbs said of the University's first meet in Cooper pool. "We knew the meet was against a tough team, so we were really psyched high and ready for them."

The Falcons came out in high gear, swiping six of eleven first place finishes in the swimming events and adding eight second place marks.

BG HAD two double-event winners against Wayne State. Freshman Pat Sugrue won the 200-yd. freestyle with a time of 1:48.1, and then topped the pack in the 500-yd. freestyle in 5:00.09.

Junior Jeff Wolf won the 50-yard freestyle in 22 seconds and also won the 100-yard freestyle (49.22).

Sophomore Reagan Minser won the three-meter diving competition, tallying 254.15 points.

The story changed Saturday, however, as the Falcons were drubbed by perennial Ohio Conference champion Kenyon, 68-45.

"WE CAME OUT a little flat today and the times showed it," Stubbs said. "We weren't able to come back off of a tough meet (Friday's) and be sharp. We had to be sharp against these guys and we knew it. But after the big meet Friday we were just enough off that we didn't have it."

Kenyon dominated from the start, winning eight of 11 events and finishing second in six others. Only Wolf (50-yard freestyle), Jeff France (100-yard freestyle) and Rick Weissbrod (200-yard breast stroke) could manage first-place finishes.

Bowling Green dominated the diving competition, however, with Minser capturing first place in both the one-meter and three-meter competition. He scored 250.7 points in the one-meter and won the three-meter by 17 points with a score of 249.75. BG's Greg Anderson finished second in both events.

Stubbs said his swimmers were noticeably flat in the 200 freestyle, 200 backstroke, 400 freestyle relay and 50 freestyle.

"WE HAVE the ability to beat Kenyon, but one has to understand the situation that you're competing under," Stubbs said. "I'm disappointed but not surprised. I felt the efforts were there, but because of the meet the night before, the capabilities just weren't."

Stubbs said the new pool added to the fast times.

"It's a super-fast pool," Stubbs said. "It's designed well in all departments. There's deep water in all the racing lanes and the lighting is excellent so the swimmers can see well on the turns. It has good water clarity from the filter system, the gutters handle the water well and you don't get a lot of splash back."

Gymnasts win at Indiana

By Dave Lewandowski
Staff Reporter

Alabama, Indiana and Western Kentucky fell victim to Bowling Green women's gymnastics team last weekend in a quadrangular meet at Indiana.

BG amassed 124.3 points to out-distance runner-up Indiana with 122.25. Alabama finished third with 114.25 points and Western Kentucky rounded out the field with 111.75.

"The girls performed really well," BG coach Charles Simpson said. "It was the first four-way meet we've been in this season and it was good for us to get used to that situation."

Junior Linda Lehman was the Ladybirds' top finisher, placing first in the uneven bars with a school record score of 9.15.

IN SECOND-PLACE finishes were Lauri Baxter in the vault with a score of 8.65 and Karen Kemper in the balance beam with a total of 7.45.

Lori Brady finished third in the vault and added fourth place finishes in the bars and all-around title.

If the scores seem to be lower this season than last, coach Simpson said that statistics are sometimes deceiving.

"We're not starting from a base score of 10 anymore, but from a base of 9.6 because of new judging standards," Simpson said.

OLYMPIC GYMNASTICS start with a base of 10 and subtract from that base. But with the new standards the scores appear to be lower.

"The girls are actually scoring higher than last year," Simpson said.

Simpson was displeased with the facilities at Indiana as the meet was held in the same room and time as a wrestling match.

"You couldn't hear the music because of the crowd noise," Simpson said. "In gymnastics you need quiet and there wasn't any because of the crowd noise."

The gymnasts are preparing for what Simpson calls "a real close meet," this weekend when they travel to Columbus to battle Ohio State, West Virginia and Eastern Kentucky.

Bobby Bonds, Gabe Paul meet

CLEVELAND (AP) - Outfielder Bobby Bonds met with Indians President Gabe Paul Monday and said "the door is still very much open" for him to play with Cleveland in the upcoming baseball season.

Bonds, 32, with four years remaining on a five-year contract—reportedly calling for a salary of $400,000 a year—was traded to the Indians from Texas last October as part of a seven-player deal.

However, the veteran slugger has balked at being traded for the fifth time in his career and has threatened to retire rather than report to the Indians in the spring.

"Money has nothing to do with it," Bonds explained after he and his agent, California attorney Rob Wright, finished their day-long meeting with Paul.

Cleveland to host Davis Cup

CLEVELAND (AP) - The United States Tennis Association said Monday the U.S. and Columbia will meet in Cleveland March 16-18 in the Davis Cup North American Zone final tennis competition.

Joseph E. Carrico, USTA first vice president and chairman of the Davis Cup committee, said, "we'll get the top players lined up. We are working on the schedule of players and we should know who they are within a few days."

"I'd say almost every top player is willing to play," he added.

Carrico, who will become the president of the USTA in March, said Cleveland won out over Jackson, Miss., and a Florida resort city. The matches will be played at the 2,500-seat Cleveland Skating Club in the eastern suburb of Shaker Heights.

The U.S. team is the defending champion, having won the Davis Cup last month by beating Great Britain.

The Columbians, paced by Ivan Molina, recently upset heavily favored Mexico to reach the North American Zone finals. The last time Columbia played the United States in Davis Cup competition was 1974 in Bogota, when the South Americans took a 3-2 victory.

Cleveland has played host to Davis Cup matches nine times. However, the last time was in 1973 when Australia took a 5-0 victory over the U.S. in the World final.

Rocket grapplers nip BG

By Pat Hyland
Assistant Sports Editor

Bowling Green won the beginning, middle and ending matches Friday in Toledo, but the Rockets took everything else as Toledo beat the Falcons in wrestling, 29-14.

Senior Jay Liles got the Falcons off to a good start with a 21-6 decision in the 118 pound division. The victory made the Findlay native BG's all-time winningest wrestler with a career record of 46-.

MARK MAYER came up with a last-minute, come-from-behind 4-3 victory in the 158 pound class. Mayer was behind the entire match, but pulled out the win with a score in the last minute of action.

In the heavyweight division, Brad Rossi posted his third pin of the season at the 2:45 mark.

"We didn't look too good," Coach Pete Riesen said of his squad's performance. "We just weren't very aggressive. Normally, our kids are pretty aggressive, but Friday we were kind of dead. That may be my fault. I worked the hell out of them during the week, and maybe they were over-worked, although I don't think so."

Although Riesen said he was not pleased with the match, he said that some wrestlers performed well.

"Liles was really good in his match," he said. "That was a big match for him."

"BILL BURKE was doing a real decent job in his match, but when he went in for a takedown he got taken down and pinned. But he wrestled well."

"Mark Mayer wrestled very well the way he came from behind to win in the last minute," he concluded.

But there were also the not-so-good showings, according to Riesen.

Greg Westhoven (134) was defeated 11-4 by Toledo's Doug Finch. "He's looked so tough up till now," Riesen said, "but he looked poor against Toledo. He wrestled at 134, but I think we're going to have to move him up to 142. He looked like a shadow of himself, and he's having trouble making the weight."

RIESEN SAID he is contemplating moving freshman John Ice down from 142 to the 134 weight class. Ice was decisively, 13-2 by Toledo's Gus Ristius. "John did about as well as I expected," Riesen said, "although he wasn't as aggressive as he usually is. We'll see how he does if we drop him down a weight class."

Riesen said he will wrestle the same lineup tomorrow against Defiance and will then make a decision about changing Ice and Westhoven.
